ABSTRACT

Study of the CPC history of the Communist Party of China can, to a certain extent, help medical students cultivate the correct "Three Views", enhance their national self-confidence and pride, and strengthen their ideals and convictions. However, at present, some medical students are still lack of sufficient and in-depth comprehension of Communist Party's history, although some achievements have been made in the Party's history learning and education in medical colleges. Therefore, how to guide medical students to actively study the Party's history, to increase their interests in Party's history, and thoroughly to study the history of the Communist Party of China is the focus of this article. By investigating the current situation of medical students' learning of Party's history, the research team found that single form of Party's history learning and education, boring content, outdated offline teaching methods, and less extracurricular practice led to some medical students' little interest in learning and the low learning efficiency. The authors believe that the current learning situation of the Party's history can be improved by improving the leadership of college Party committees, integrating existing sources, building efficient classrooms, and carrying out extracurricular practical activities and thus to increase students' learning interests and to enhance their learning effect: Only in this way can medical students dare to shoulder responsibility, be brave in innovation, and take the initiative to undertake the historical mission of saving the dead and healing the wounded.

1. INTRODUCTION

General secretary, Xi Jinping, delivered a speech at the national education conference in September 10, 2018. "We should strengthen education in Chinese history, especially in China's modern history, the history of China's revolution, the history of the Communist Party of China, the history of the Chinese people's Republic of China, and the history of China's reform and opening up and unremittingly foster and carry forward the socialist core values". [1] the vast majority of young people should thoroughly study and implement the spirit of general secretary Xi Jinping's important speech, and strive to learn the feelings of the Party's history, the value of love, the patriotism and the love of socialism. Medical students shoulder the great responsibility of saving lives and healing the wounded, which requires medical students to be highly consistent with the requirements of the Party Central Committee in ideology, politics and consciousness. Especially on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Communist Party of China, discussing the status and effectiveness of medical students' party history learning and education activities is not only of certain positive significance for medical colleges to cultivate more medical students with "exquisite business and respecting life", but also put forward countermeasures, which is conducive to further strengthening medical students' party history learning, so as to guide medical students to see the good and think together. It can also help them draw strength from learning, stimulate fighting spirit, and practice the spirit of red medicine with their own practical actions.

2. THE IMPORTANCE OF MEDICAL STUDENTS' LEARNING OF THE HISTORY OF THE PARTY

2.1. To establish a scientific "Three Views" and to be a qualified medical worker

Xi Jinping said at the 100th anniversary conference of the Communist Party of China, "the future belongs to youth, and hope to youth." [2] "The primary task of cultivating teenagers is to help them establish correct three views, among which the core values, standard value for judging right and wrong, reflect the spiritual pursuit of the Chinese nation ". [3] Since ancient times, the mission of doctors is to heal the wounded and save lives, which requires medical students to strive for the medical cause with lofty professionalism and good professional ethics as the driving force. Academician Zhong Nanshan also sent a message to medical students: "our medical students should learn medical skills, but more importantly, they should learn to be human - cure patients, and give patients sympathy and courage". [4] Therefore, it is very important and necessary to carry out party history education for medical students, which can help medical students establish a correct world outlook, outlook on life and values. It can also enable medical students to form the core values of patriotism, dedication, integrity and friendliness in the study of party history, and guide medical students to be qualified medical workers

2.2. To enhance national self-confidence and be a "dream catcher"

One hundred years is just in its prime. Through the study of one hundred years of party history, medical students can strengthen the "four self-confidence" in the study of party history, enhance national self-confidence and pride, understand that the realization of the "Chinese dream" is inseparable from the implementation of the "healthy China strategy" and the hard work of volunteer workers, and understand the importance of being a good Chinese doctor. Through the study of party history, medical students can have a comprehensive understanding of the great process of the Chinese nation from standing up, getting rich and becoming strong, and let medical students understand that their predecessors have created brilliance through suffering, so as to strengthen the faith of medical students to work hard, remember history, never forget their mission and forge ahead, do a good job in medical services for the people with benevolence and serve the "Chinese dream"

2.3. To establish lofty ideals and beliefs, and to abide by medical ethics and professional ethics

Looking back on the 100 year struggle history of the Communist Party of China, a large number of advanced models of tenacious struggle and selfless dedication emerged, which formed many great spirits and built the spiritual pedigree of the Chinese Communists. The students of traditional Chinese medicine have left a strong mark in earthquake relief and epidemic prevention. They carry forward the spirit of young people's courage to struggle with their youth and even life. Taking history and people as a mirror, current medical students should run through the past, present and future. They should choose the right direction in the study of party history, forge courage and wisdom regardless of risks, move forward bravely in spite of rain or wind, and create a great historical career belonging to this generation. In March 6, 2021, general secretary Xi Jinping visited the members of the medical and health education circles who attended the CPPCC session. He delivered an important speech. "The majority of medical workers should abide by the medical ethics, medical ethics, medical ethics, benevolence, heart and soul, and make great efforts to provide more high-quality and efficient health services for the people." [5] It puts forward specific requirements for the majority of medical workers to unremittingly pursue lofty ideals. Therefore, as a medical student, during the University, we should make the medical ethics "enter the ear, brain and heart", and do not violate the oath of the Communist Party's dedication to the people and the oath of being a medical student.

3. ANALYSIS OF THE CURRENT SITUATION AND CAUSES OF MEDICAL STUDENTS' LEARNING AND EDUCATION OF PARTY'S HISTORY

Since the party history learning activities were carried out, medical college students have been able to actively carry out tremendous party history learning activities in various forms, and achieve positive learning effect. Through the study of party history, most medical students have established a correct view of party history, and can establish a correct view of rightness, objectively evaluate major historical issues, and further feel the science of Marxism and the greatness of the Communist Party of China. General secretary Xi Jinping said in his speech at the party history education mobilization conference: "persisting in using historical materialism to understand history, adhering to the ideological line of seeking truth from facts, distinguishing mainstream and tributaries, upholding truth, correcting mistakes, developing experience and drawing lessons". [6] In the study of party history, medical students take a realistic attitude towards problems and explore problems in a realistic and pragmatic way. By learning the dedication of their predecessors, they practice the knowledge seeking spirit of erudition and fraternity and the exploration spirit of excellence. And they strive to contribute to the medical and health industry in the new era. These achievements are inseparable from the high attention and support of medical college leaders, coupled with the diversification of learning forms, which jointly promote the learning and education of party history of medical students. However, through investigation and interview, it is found that some medical students still lack breadth and depth in their study of party history; The integration of Party spirit with medical specialty is not enough; Some medical students are still lack of interest and enthusiasm. After investigation, it is probably caused by the following reasons:

3.1. The popularity of Party's history education is different among students with different political backgrounds

Party organizations often call on Party members and activists to join the party when carrying out party history education. Therefore, the popularity of party history knowledge in other political groups is slightly less than the previous two. Students who do not meet the conditions for joining the party for the time being are often slightly indifferent to their political consciousness because of insufficient time for party history learning, backward information for party history learning, and lack of party history learning activities.

3.2. Various ways of party history education, but there are still deficiencies

With the advent of the Internet age, online education and learning platforms and channels have become a major choice for students to study. However, on the Internet, the distortion of one-sided interpretation of party history, the exaggeration of historical mistakes and twists, the deliberate connection and malicious speculation between party history events and practical problems, etc. have caused great confusion and even led medical students into misunderstanding

3.3. The off-line teaching method of the Party's history is outdated, and students lack learning initiative

Limited by its strong professionalism and complex system, party history education is mainly carried out in the way of one-way indoctrination by teachers and passive acceptance by students. The teaching method is lack of appeal and penetration. Therefore, when receiving information, students often feel sleepy, absent-minded or even choose to skip classes. In addition, for medical students with heavy academic tasks, they should not only spend a lot of time and energy in professional courses, but also use their spare time to master clinical skills. Therefore, it is particularly important for medical students to improve their interest in learning party history and make them learn party history easily, happily and actively, which also puts forward higher requirements for the teaching method of party history education.

4. DISCUSSION ON STRENGTHENING MEDICAL STUDENTS' LEARNING AND EDUCATION OF PARTY'S HISTORY IN THE NEW ERA

4.1. To enhance the leadership of the Party Committee of medical colleges and universities to provide political guarantee for the learning of Party's history

In the process of party history learning and education, the Party committee of medical colleges undertakes the main responsibility. In party history education, we should adhere to classified guidance, clarify learning requirements, tasks, contents and forms, and constantly enhance pertinence and effectiveness. On the one hand, we should Provide political security and adhere to the correct direction of education. Party history education is not only the party's history education, but also the ideological and political education. The study of party history is very political and must adhere to the correct political direction, which is the fundamental premise of carrying out party history education. We should fully understand the political significance of carrying out the study and education of party history in medical colleges in the new era: it strengthens leadership, unifies thinking and deployment, and provides the publicity and education of party history. On the other hand, party history education should make full use of the party day activities, "three sessions and one lesson", "two learning and one doing" and other normalized education systems, adhere to the combination of centralized learning and autonomous learning, the combination of specified actions and optional ones, and carry out learning education with distinctive characteristics and various forms. We should pay close attention to special study, special party lessons, special democratic life meetings and special training, carefully organize party members to carry out publicity, and make good use of the party's red resources to make medical students feel the hardships, great changes and brilliant achievements. We should pay close attention to focusing on stories of the party's revolution and heroes, cultivating the feelings of medical students' love for the party, patriotism and socialism, and injecting the red gene into the heart of every medical student.

4.2. To provide a high-quality platform for the education of Party's history by integrating existing educational resources

First, invite all kinds of experts into the campus to realize the utilization of "intellectual" resources. Actively introduce experts and scholars such as academicians of the "two academies", heroes and models in all aspects and leading cadres into the campus to preach the knowledge of "party history", and constantly enhance the persuasion and attraction of education. [7] Second, make good use of high-quality public platforms. In the Internet era, information media has entered a stage of great development, and people's life is closely related to the network. Similarly, the impact of the great development of information media on medical students is also multifaceted, not only the change of life style, but also the change of learning style. We must make full use of Internet technology and multimedia platform to create a platform for online learning and exchange of party history culture. For example, the current high-quality platform "learning power", the party history and culture of this app is the soul of guidance and the king of content. Its comprehensive ideological services all highlight the significance of its construction. For example, the platform of official account for "Youth Learning" has improved the quality and effectiveness of medical students' learning of party history through the use of propaganda learning, comparative learning, practice learning and supervised learning. On this basis, we can also present some typical historical scenes or ecological original appearance to medical students in the form of simulation, which can not only increase interest and vividness, but also increase the intuitive understanding of medical students.

4.3. To construct efficient classroom to lay a solid theoretical foundation for the education of Party's history

First, make good use of the compulsory ideological and political classroom of medical students. We should give full play to the main channel role of Ideological and political theory course and leading role of teachers in the study and education of party history so as to improve classroom efficiency. The second is to increase the diversity of classroom forms, such as carrying out interesting classroom, role-playing, group cooperative learning and other teaching modes to attract medical students to learn, so that all students have a sense of participation, which can not only deepen the impression of knowledge, but also improve the efficiency of learning, so that students can more deeply experience the important spirit in party history. The third is to increase the sharing of "Red Classics" in the classroom. Medical students can share ideas on revolutionary songs, stories, films and television with their classmates so as to enhance the sense of acquisition in learning party history.

4.4. To carry out extracurricular practical activities to provide practical path for the learning and education of Party's history

In addition to in-classroom learning, medical students can also carry out the study of party history out of classroom with poetry reading, historical drama, Knowledge Q & A, party history speech contest, etc. You can also visit red patriotism education bases, such as museums, memorials, revolutionary martyrs' tombs and other practice bases;

Students can also take the place of daily activities as the main field to hold the campus party history and Culture Festival. With the theme of party history, students can arrange their own dormitories, study rooms, activity centers and other places so as to mobilize the subjective initiative of medical students. Only in this way can make medical students imperceptibly influenced by historical figures in the process of participating in practice. What's more, it can promote medical students' understanding of the party's history and feelings, enhance their love for the party, motherland and the people, encourage them to integrate patriotism into the blood of youth, and eventually build a solid foundation of faith.

5. CONCLUSION

As the successor of the future socialist medical and health cause and the builder of the cause of socialism with Chinese characteristics, it is of great practical significance for medical students to strengthen the study of party history, understand the party's original mission and the party's spiritual pedigree. The study and education of party history can cultivate medical students' correct "Three Views" to a certain extent, and strengthen their ideals and beliefs of seeking well-being for people's health and striving for human medical cause. In order to enhance the learning effect of medical students' party history and make the Centennial party history "enter the brain, ear and heart" among medical students, the learning effect can be enhanced by improving the leadership of the Party committee of medical colleges, integrating existing educational resources, building efficient classrooms learning modes and carrying out extracurricular practical activities. As a result, medical students can inherit the red spirit, bravely shoulder the responsibility of the times and eventually strive for the development of China's medical and health undertakings and human physical and mental health.
